

Last Updated: June 29, 2018

McVeigh Global Meetings and Events. (“McVeigh Global”, “McVeigh”, “we”, “our”, or “us”) respects your privacy and is committed to complying with this Privacy Policy Statement (“Privacy Policy”), which describes how McVeigh, as a global meeting and event management company, collects, stores and uses the personal data you provide to us.

This Privacy Policy describes what personal data we collect about you, how we collect it, how we use it, with whom we may share it and what choices you have regarding our use of your personal data. We also describe the measures we take to protect the security of your personal data and how to contact us.

This policy will encapsulate the below information and is intended to follow the GDPR compliance standards.

What information we collect	We collect information about you in connection with your registration, use, purchase or inquiries about our services. (See heading “Personal Data McVeigh Collects” on page # 3)
How we use your information	We use your information to provide our services, process payments, operate our websites, market products and services, create business insights and comply with law. (See heading “How McVeigh Collects and Uses Personal Data” on page # 4)
How we share your information	We have a contract with your employer or meeting/travel sponsor, who is a corporate client of McVeigh, and we share your information with them, as well as travel suppliers and vendors to book travel arrangements and provide our services. We do not sell or share information with third parties so that they can independently market their own products or services directly to you. (See heading “Who does McVeigh disclose personal data to and why” on page # 6)
International transfers	We transfer your information outside of your home country, only when required, as permitted by law. Regardless of where your personal data is transferred, your personal data is protected in accordance with our Data Protection and Privacy Principles. (See heading “Does McVeigh disclose personal data across borders” on page #7)
Your rights	You have the right to be informed of whether we are processing your information and to access, correct, delete or object, upon request and free of charge, to our use of your information, to the extent required by law. (See heading “What are my rights with respect to my personal data” On page #11)

Changes

We will tell you about material changes to this privacy statement by posting it on our website before it goes into effect and, where appropriate, communicating directly to you about the change. (See heading “How are changes to this Privacy Policy handled” on page #12)

Questions

If you have questions about this privacy statement, please use our contact us page on our website <http://www.mcveigh.com>

This Privacy Policy applies to McVeigh’s global meeting planning, production, creative/design, sourcing incentives, conferences, events, destination management, travel management and leisure services provided to you, including via McVeigh websites and applications that display or link to this Privacy Policy (hereinafter collectively, the “Services”). Once you leave such websites and applications for others, the privacy policies of the other websites or applications shall apply.

We encourage you to read this Privacy Policy thoroughly and in its entirety as it relates to your rights regarding the processing of your personally identifiable information (“PII”) or personal data. As a user of our Services, you understand and agree that we collect, use and disclose your personal data in accordance with this Privacy Policy.

Our privacy practices vary as required amongst countries in which we operate to reflect local legal requirements. McVeigh materially complies with applicable laws in the jurisdictions in which it operates, including the Regulation (EU) 2016/679 General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) by May 25, 2018 in its handling of personal data of persons in the European Economic Area. It is in our legitimate business interests to provide you with the Services which use the personal data provided to us for the purposes described herein. Your agreement to the terms of this Privacy Policy is not intended to and does not constitute a “consent” to such terms for purposes of the GDPR.

Personal Data McVeigh Collects

In the course of providing its Services, McVeigh collects, uses and discloses PII / personal data. PII / Personal data is any information that can be used to identify you or that we can link to you. You, as traveler, meeting attendee or user of the Services, may be asked to provide certain personal data when you use our Services, including, without limitation:

- Names and contact information (work/office/home/mobile phone, fax, email/physical/mailling address);
- Traveler/attendee arranger and emergency contact names and information;
- Traveler/attendee preferences and trip/meeting details (e.g. routings, class of service, seat preferences, frequent flyer data, meal preferences, hotel/rail/car and other ground transportation membership data and preferences, special accommodation requests, other personal data supplied by you via your profiles, surveys, or other requests);
- Travel documentation (e.g. passport/visa/driver's license number, TSA number, citizenship, date of birth, gender identity/sexual orientation, or the like);
- Payment data (corporate or personal credit cards) and Bank information; and
- Logins, User IDs, Employee Identifications, Passwords, Internet Protocol (IP) addresses and browsing history/information.

If you submit any personal data relating to other people in connection with the Services (e.g. if you complete a reservation for another individual), you represent that you have the authority to do so and we will collect, use, and disclose such personal data in accordance with this Privacy Policy.

How McVeigh Collects and Uses Personal Data

McVeigh collects personal data:

- From you, directly, when you access various parts of our Services, including when you communicate with us via email or other channels;
- From other sources, for instance, the company of which you are an employee or are otherwise traveling or attending a meeting on behalf of (“Company”), including such Company’s third parties who may send us your personal data on your behalf or on your Company’s behalf;
- From the network of websites and applications accessible through or utilized by our Services and our company, including third party suppliers (e.g. airlines, hotels, payment card providers) and our McVeigh-related companies, affiliates, subsidiaries, joint ventures, partners, subcontractors and agents. This includes personal data we collect automatically through our websites and applications, for instance by using cookies and similar technologies.
- Webcasts, online “Meetings” and Similar Services: Users may be able to access or participate in Webcasts, online “meetings” or similar services through our registration websites. In some cases, users may be able to register for such webcasts and services directly with our provider, and any such Personally Identifiable Information collected by our technology provider in connection with such registration and such user’s participation in the services thereafter may be shared with McVeigh, and will also be subject to their privacy policy. In other cases, some users may be able to access webcasts, online “meetings” or similar services hosted by registering with McVeigh, and in such situations, any Personally Identifiable Information that may be disclosed during participation in such services would be collected by the web-casting company on McVeigh’s behalf, but would be treated in accordance with this Privacy Policy.

McVeigh collects and uses your personal data for specified, explicit and legitimate purposes, as described in this Privacy Policy. McVeigh does not process your personal data further in a manner that is incompatible with those purposes.

McVeigh collects and uses personal data to:

- Provide our Services and fulfill our obligations to your Company and travelers/attendees (e.g. complete and administer travel/meeting reservations, assist in managing the travel/meeting, provide reporting, provide notices about your account and the Services, inform you of updates to our websites and applications and other changes to our products or Services);
- Communicate with you, for instance by email, direct mail, social media and phone or via McVeigh's websites or applications and to provide you with customer service.
- Understand how our websites and applications are used and provide a customized experience as you use our Services, such as by providing interactive or personalized elements on our Services and providing you with content based on your interests (see our "Cookies" policy <http://www.mcveigh.com/wp-content/uploads/2018/05/McVeigh-Cookie-policy.pdf> for more information);
- Fulfill a request made by you or your Company (e.g. reporting, questions, or other requests about your personal data);
- Send you newsletters, marketing emails and other information or materials that may interest you, as well as showing personalized advertisements. Where required, we will obtain your consent before sending such marketing messages or showing personalized advertisements;
- Generate anonymized or aggregated profiles and use such data for reporting and analytic purposes.
- Carry out our obligations and enforce your, our, or other's rights as we believe reasonably necessary (e.g. billing and collection, fraud prevention, comply with legal obligations, and respond to legal proceedings or requests from legal authorities and law enforcement or other third parties).

Who does McVeigh disclose personal data to and why?

Personal data collected is shared with or disclosed to:

- McVeigh and its related companies, affiliates, subsidiaries, joint ventures, partners, subcontractors and agents as necessary to fulfill and support the Services, including but not limited to emergency bookings and assistance, ticket issuance, responding to requests and assessing or offering promotions;
- Companies McVeigh uses to support its business who provide ancillary services (e.g. fulfillment, surveys, storage, statistical analysis, technology, development, credit checks (as applicable));
- Your Company for reporting, auditing, tracking and other purposes as necessary with your Company, including those of its personnel they request we send or make personal data available to;
- Third-party service providers you or your Company request we send personal data to (e.g. providers who secure compensation for delayed, canceled, or overbooked flights on behalf of travelers; safety and tracking information providers; companies providing weather information, travel alerts, and destination content through solutions and tools; entities who collect travel information on behalf of airline carriers for the purpose of such entities forwarding it on to certain airlines for tracking of negotiated fares between airlines and your Company; successor organizations and other travel management companies);
- Third-party service providers to complete travel and attendee arrangements and reservations and fulfill the Services (e.g. Global Distribution Systems (GDSs); airlines, trains, rental car and other ground transportation companies, hotels, cruise lines, destination management companies, and other related travel suppliers for booking/ticketing purposes; industry reporting authorities; equipment and technology vendors, including, without limitation, online booking tool providers, meeting registration software providers (including onsite and mobile event management solution providers), and audio visual companies; visa and passport providers; credit card companies and payment collection and processing companies);
- Other third-parties as we believe is reasonably necessary in accordance with applicable laws, including laws outside your country of residence to: (i) satisfy laws, regulations, or governmental or legal requests and processes; (ii) identify, contact, or bring legal action against someone who may be violating our terms of use or policies or otherwise enforce our terms and policies; (iii) operate the

Services properly; or (iv) protect McVeigh and those it serves, including pursuing available remedies or to limit damages that may be sustained (e.g. exchanging information with other companies and organizations for the purposes of fraud protection and risk reduction).

Data consolidation companies may also be used by McVeigh or your Company for the purpose of creating reports and related statistics for benchmarking or other related purposes, including, without limitation, utilizing cumulative statistical data, which may incorporate data acquired from your Company for ordinary business purposes customary in our industry and the Services we provide, but without identifying, directly or indirectly, you or your Company.

McVeigh may be acquired, merge with another business, sell, or liquidate its assets, acquire, or buy other businesses or assets. In such transactions, personal data is generally one of the transferred business assets. In the event of an acquisition, sale, liquidation, or merger, your personal data and non-personal identifying information may be automatically assigned by us in our sole discretion to a third party.

Does McVeigh disclose personal data across borders?

When sharing with or disclosing personal data to other parties, including to McVeigh's related companies, affiliates, subsidiaries, joint ventures, partners, subcontractors, and agents who provide Services and maintain facilities, your personal data may be transferred to countries with data protection laws providing a lower standard of protection for your personal data than your country.

We will transfer your personal data in compliance with applicable data protection laws, including having adequate mechanisms in place to protect your personal data when it is transferred internationally (e.g. Model Clauses, data protection agreements). If you have questions or wish to obtain more information about the international transfer of your personal data or the implemented safeguards, please contact us as provided in this Privacy Policy.

How McVeigh stores and protects personal data

Typically, McVeigh stores personal data on its servers managed internally and with third-party storage providers.

McVeigh uses appropriate technical and organizational security measures to protect the personal data McVeigh holds on its network and systems from unauthorized access, disclosure, destruction and alteration. We conduct periodic reviews of our data collection, storage, processing and security measures to verify we are only collecting, storing and processing personal data that is required for our Services and to fulfill our contractual obligations. While we make every effort to protect the integrity and security of our network and systems, we cannot guarantee, ensure, or warrant that our security measures will prevent illegal or unauthorized activity related to your personal data. When using our Services, you should be aware that no data transmission over the Internet can be guaranteed as totally secure. Although we strive to protect your personal data, we do not warrant the security of any data and information that you transmit to us over the Internet and you do so at your own risk.

In order to protect your personal data, we kindly ask you to not send us credit card information or other similar personal data to us via email. We also encourage you to keep your password confidential and not disclose it to any other person. If you are sharing a computer with anyone, you should log out before leaving a site or service to protect access to your password and personal data from subsequent users. Please alert us immediately if you believe your password or any of your personal data has been misused. Please note, we will never ask you to disclose your password or credit card information in an unsolicited phone call or email.

How long does McVeigh keep my personal data?

McVeigh retains personal data for the period necessary to fulfill the purposes outlined in this Privacy Policy, unless a longer retention period is required or permitted by applicable law. When determining how long to retain personal data, we take into account the necessity of the personal data for the provision of our Services, applicable laws and regulations, including data protection laws and our legal obligations. We may retain records to investigate or defend against potential legal claims. When retention of the personal data is no longer necessary, the data will be deleted or aggregated for analytic purposes.

Applications

McVeigh makes available its online applications (mobile- and web-based) for download from various application marketplaces. McVeigh collects usage information for us to improve the application and to deliver an enhanced and more personalized experience. McVeigh may follow information on your use of our applications (e.g. anonymized statistics on the daily number of visitors, the daily requests for specific usage elements, the countries from which applications and Services are accessed). We use these statistics exclusively for measuring activities and for improvement or adaptation of Services for your benefit. We may also use Google Analytics or other analytics tools and methods to develop anonymized user statistics. McVeigh uses such statistics for the analysis of activities, the improvement of Services and for communicating findings and product improvements to your Company and other McVeigh clients and prospective clients. Such statistics do not contain personal data and cannot be used for the collection of personal data. In accordance with the applications' terms of use, certain information about you (which may include your email address, itinerary data, and other information you provide voluntarily) may be shared with third parties as stated in this Privacy Policy.

Links to Third-party Websites and Services

Our Services may contain links to third-party websites. Some of these websites may allow you to purchase products and services, register to receive materials, or receive new product and service updates. In many cases, you may be asked to provide contact information such as your name, address, email address, phone number, and credit/debit card information. If you use these third-party websites and/or provide your personal data and information, the privacy policy and terms of service on those websites are applicable. We encourage you to carefully read such policies on third-party websites before submitting your personal data. McVeigh is not responsible for and expressly disclaims any and all liability related to the actions of such third-party websites, their privacy policies, or the terms and content of such websites.

How McVeigh handles “do not track” requests

We do not currently commit to responding to browsers “do not track” signals with respect to McVeigh websites and applications. We process your personal data through our websites and applications in accordance with this Privacy Policy, irrespective of your tracking settings.

How McVeigh uses “Cookies” and other similar technologies

We may automatically collect information using “cookies”. You may choose to refuse cookies in your browser (please refer to the “Cookies” link below), however, that may limit your ability to receive some or all of our Services, and/or some features may not be available to you or may not function properly as a result. Additional information on “Cookies” and how McVeigh uses them can be found here <http://www.mcveigh.com/wp-content/uploads/2018/05/McVeigh-Cookie-policy.pdf>

Does McVeigh collect personal data of children?

McVeigh does not knowingly collect personal data from children. Individuals under 18 years of age should not use our Services to submit any personal data about themselves.

What are my rights with respect to my personal data?

You may choose what personal data (if any) you wish to provide to us. However, if you choose not to provide certain details, your experience with some or all of our Services may be affected.

To the extent required by applicable law, you have the right to access your personal data and confirm the processing of your personal data. Also, where applicable, you have the right to rectify inaccuracies or errors, erase, restrict the processing, object to processing and withdraw consent to processing of your personal data, and where applicable, the right to data portability of your personal data. McVeigh will handle such requests in the time specified by applicable law and where permitted by applicable law, may charge a reasonable administrative fee to cover the costs of responding to any such request.

In some jurisdictions, in addition to you agreeing to this Privacy Policy, data privacy or protection laws may require us to obtain a separate express consent for processing of your personal data. Your consent may also be implied in some circumstances, as permitted by applicable law, such as when communications are required to fulfill your requests.

How can I exercise my rights or make complaints?

If you have any questions about this Privacy Policy or wish to exercise any of your rights as described in this Privacy Policy, please contact us as follows.

For data subjects within the EMEA region, please contact us as follows:

McVeigh Global Meetings and Events
Attn: Legal & Privacy Department
Address: 209 West 40th Street
Suite 201
City/State/Zip: New York, NY 10018
Email: info@mcveigh.com

For data subjects within the Americas or APAC regions, please contact us as follows:

McVeigh Global Meetings and Events
Attn: Legal & Privacy Department
Address: 209 West 40th Street
Suite 201
City/State/Zip: New York, NY 10018
Email: info@mcveigh.com

McVeigh will respond to your requests to the email address or phone number that you have registered with us or we otherwise have on file for you or any other suitable method. Depending on your request, we may review the request with you and/or your Company to assist in resolving and responding to the request.

We are committed to working with you to obtain a fair resolution of any complaint or concern you may have about our use of your personal data. If, however, you believe that we have not been able to assist with your complaint or concern, you may have the right to make a complaint to the data protection authority in your country (if one exists in your country).

How are changes to this Privacy Policy handled?

McVeigh reserves the right to revise, amend, or modify this Privacy Policy at any time and in any manner. When we post changes to this Privacy Policy, we will update the “last updated” date at the top of this Privacy Policy and we encourage you to regularly check this Privacy Policy for changes.